Abstract:

Along with practices such as support and caring, humor in classroom management is a fundamental practice that maximizes student functioning at school. Humor is a pivotal concept whose value was recognized by ancient philosophers. In fact, we now have decades of empirical data on this effective practice. Also studied in many educational systems, humor in classroom management underpins concrete actions and important nuances. In this context, participants will be able to address the question of how this practice works. For example, what contribution does humor make to satisfying students' need to belong, to their well-being and school engagement? Are all teachers effective in adopting this practice? What are the day-to-day barriers, issues and challenges to adopting this research-based practice?

Herzlich eingeladen sind sämtliche Kolleginnen und Kollegen sowie Studierende der HS Ravensburg-Weingarten sowie der PH Weingarten und weitere Interessierte
